NEW CHAPTER OF SAFARI CLUB INTERNATIONAL IN NEWFOUNDLAND & LABRADOR

Clarenville, Newfoundland – March 19th, 2026 A new hunter rights and conservation not-for-profit organization has been set up in the province and it's a name many hunters will recognize - Safari Club International.

The newest chapter of SCI was approved by Safari Club International board of directors on February 17th at the annual convention in Nashville, Tennessee. SCI Newfoundland & Labrador board members and volunteers have been busy behind the scenes setting the groundwork in place for the public announcement here in the province.

SCI Director of Membership and Chapter Services Jason St. Michael said “This brings the total number of chapters worldwide to 169”. St. Michael went onto say “We are thrilled to announce the establishment of a new chapter in the region. This development marks an exciting milestone as it ensures representation from coast to coast across Canada.”

Newfoundland Chapter President Dean Crocker said “Newfoundland and Labrador's acceptance into Safari Club International as its newest chapter signifies a period of significant opportunity. SCI puts hunters at the forefront, utilizing their experience in fighting for wildlife conservation. Their recent involvement in environmental assessments for projects like wind farms, will prove to be beneficial.” Crocker goes onto say “Our membership drive aims to unite outdoor enthusiasts and our mission is to protect the rights of hunters and promote conservation.”

SCI Newfoundland and Labrador is currently accepting new members. Both Newfoundland Chapter and International Membership is included in the single membership fee. Interested individuals can visit www.scinl.com to join and to learn more about SCI NL.
